GETTING THROUGH FINAL ARRANGEMENTS

---

---

We understand how difficult this time may be for you and your family. The death of a spouse, friend or relative can be one of the most stressful events in our lives. It is a time when you are dealing with your own emotions, those of others, and the gathering of family and friends.

It is also a time when you will have to make a number of decisions. To help you through this time we have designed an easier way to lead you through the arrangement process as clearly and simply as we can.

Those who have died were individuals, individuals whose lives and personalities impacted those around them in a unique way. We offer a wide range of options that will allow you to honor that life in all its individuality and to reflect on the impact it made on others.

{ HONORING } A Life

DECISIONS

Decisions to be made at the time of someone's death can be complex. A major decision is how to handle the deceased's remains. There are many options that will honor both the wishes of the deceased and those of the family.

DONATION

It is not unusual for someone who has died to have left behind as part of their legacy a request that all or part of their body be donated to medical science or as a life-giving gift. Even if a donation legacy was not left, the individual's family may choose donation on their behalf. Donations may include the entire body, organs, tissue and/or bones.

The gift of donation does not preclude you from ultimately deciding on the final form of disposition. Nor should it affect your ability to gather and commemorate.

INTERMENT

Ground burial, green burial, burial at sea, entombment

CASKETS / VAULTS

Caskets, vaults, outer burial containers, shipping containers, burial clothing, corner art, name plates, monuments, markers

CREMATION

Retention, burial, burial at sea, inurnment, division, scattering

URNS / ALTERNATIVES

Cremation caskets, rentals, alternative containers, urns, urn vaults, jewelry

REFLECTIONS

An even wider array of options present themselves to friends and family who wish to reflect on the life of the deceased, and on the impact they may have had on those around them. These options can include events before, at the time of and/or following disposition.

GATHER

Visitation, viewing, wake, receiving, hosting, coming together for mutual support, memories, and condolences

COMMEMORATE

Religious and/or secular memorial service, ceremony, celebration, remembrance as part of the healing process

AT THE TIME OF

FOLLOWING

MEMORIAL PRODUCTS

Printed goods, religious, fraternal and veterans materials, audio/visual aids

{ DECISIONS }
INTERMENT OR CREMATION

Families today have a wealth of options for cremation and interment. Either option can be combined with reflections and merchandise that tastefully and respectfully recognize the life of the deceased.

If cremation is chosen families may decide to retain the ashes in one place, divide them among family or friends, spread them in a location of particular significance, or bury them in the ground or in a crypt. They may even have a more unusual idea that would be uniquely reflective of their wishes or those of the deceased.

Burial can likewise be handled in many ways. The body can be buried in the ground, in a crypt, at sea or in a green or eco-friendly manner. Again, the options can be as unique as the individual.

RETENTION

We will transfer the remains from the local (within 10 miles) place of death to this funeral home in our service vehicle, and then to the local (within 10 miles) place of final disposition in a hearse. These charges also include obtaining information for permits and records, placement and adjustment (casketing) of the deceased into a container of your choice (see merchandise page), a private identification for less than one hour and the accompaniment of the deceased to the final place of disposition/graveside service/final committal by one of our licensed staff members.

Accompaniment (use of equipment and staff at cemetery or crematory)	$525
The charge for these combined professional services will not exceed	$2,900

Our firm permits open casket viewing of unembalmed remains; however, cause of death, condition of the remains, autopsy, organ and tissue donation and delays in visitation may modify how we can honor your wishes. Permission for refrigeration, sanitary care and/or use of alternative treatments will assist us in honoring this request. After the deceased's remains are in our care we will be able to better apprise you of how we can fulfill your request.

**Our charge for "Arrangements to obtain necessary permits and records information" will be added to the charge for "Coordinating the funeral" should you also require our assistance in arranging for a Gathering or Commemoration.*

DECISIONS often require us to pay third parties that are not included in this price list on your behalf. Often the timing of the arrangement makes it necessary for us to estimate these advances. Items, individuals and service providers that may require payment in advance, include the cemetery/crematory, death certificates, permits and filing fees. We do not mark-up the cost of these items. The actual costs will be reflected on your final bill.

RETENTION AND CARE

In the event that final disposition is delayed beyond 48 hours and/or you decide to view the deceased for any period of time, additional services can be provided beyond the Retention tier. Following refrigeration we will perform sanitary care without embalming. We can also dress and cosmetize the deceased for viewing and/or identification.

If you wish to assist us in placing the deceased in the casket, dressing the deceased, applying cosmetics and/or hairdressing, please let us know at this time.

RETENTION, CARE AND PREPARATION

Except in certain special cases, embalming is not required by law. Embalming may be necessary, however, if you select certain funeral arrangements, such as a funeral with viewing. If you do not want embalming, you usually have the right to choose an arrangement that does not require you to pay for it, such as direct cremation or immediate burial. If you choose to have an embalming performed, the decedent may be embalmed at a location other than this registered mortuary. The charge for embalming includes the use of preparation room and sanitary care.

If you choose to have the deceased embalmed using traditional chemicals or eco-conscious treatments, the charges for sanitary care and refrigeration will not apply.

{ REFLECTIONS }

GATHER/COMMEMORATE

Reflecting on the life of the deceased can take many forms and can be planned before disposition of the remains, at the time of disposition, any time following the disposition or any combination of these.

Ceremonies and events can be conducted in the presence of the dead or apart from them. They can include an informal gathering of friends and family, a formal ceremony or recognition in some form that extends over the long term. They can be religious or secular, and the venues for these ceremonies can be as wide ranging as the options for how to design them.

The first choice to make will be whether you want an event before, at the time of or following disposition, or any combination thereof. Once you have chosen the timing of your reflections, you will want to decide whether the event is in the form of gathering and/or commemoration.

For each event you will need to consider the following:

- Our funeral home facilities/alternative venues
- Clergy, celebrant or eulogist
- Transportation
- Musicians
- Audio/visual
- Other merchandise
- Food and beverage coordination and supply

REFLECTIONS

There is no singular way to honor our dead. Some families choose to bury, cremate or entomb the deceased prior to gathering together for the ceremony, while others choose to gather, commemorate and then commit the remains. There is no right or wrong order in how you reflect.

Depending upon the complexity and number of events you choose to have our funeral home manage, the total fee you will pay for our hourly services can range from a fairly small part of your overall fee to a more substantial percentage. We can, of course, tailor our participation in a way that best suits your needs, desires and budget.
